Biography

João Pedro Marnoto, born in 1975 in Porto, Portugal, after completing his photography degree in the UK, has devoted his work in over 25 years of professional practice within the grounds of documentary storytelling, having worked with numerous editorial, institutional and commercial entities such as New York Times, RTP (Portuguese Public television), UNESCO and Symington Family Estates. Extending his tools of trade from still into moving image, and experimenting increasingly with practices more within the field of fiction, his approach intends to be an intimate exercise of awareness and consciousness, with his projects reflecting on issues of identity and the human condition, within an environmental, sociological and personal perspective.
